You may have seen the recent spikes in gas prices and probably wonder what is causing the increase. The cost of crude oil has already surpassed last year's highs, driven by global oil supplies and soaring demand in 2022.

Currently, the national average is about $3.34 per gallon, based on several online gas price monitoring apps. This number reflects an increase of almost $0.76 per gallon compared to a month ago and a nearly 93-cent increase per gallon compared to a year ago.

Experts expect prices to rise slowly over the next few months, depending on what happens overseas. By springtime, prices could soar to record levels. So, if you're planning to hit the road for spring break, you might want to start pinching pennies now to budget for higher gas prices during your travels.

One way to get started on saving some extra cash is to let us review your car insurance policy. We can compare quotes in minutes from top providers and get you the LOWEST rate, guaranteed! When you drive with the star, you save with the star.

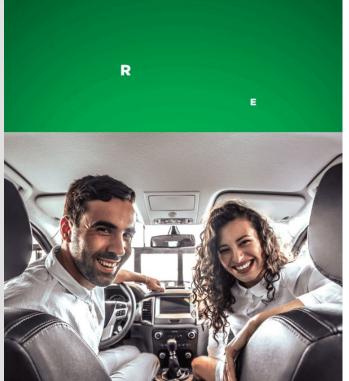

While car insurance may not be the most romantic topic to discuss, taking the time to review and update your coverage might help your relationship. Sharing car insurance with an unmarried significant may lower the price instead of purchasing two separate policies, and we can help!

These are a few of the ways you may be able to save:

- Share a policy: If you share a vehicle or have different cars at the same residence, you may be able to purchase a policy together. This would cover all your vehicles and allow you to drive the other person's car and be protected. You may even qualify for a multi-car discount.
- Add each other as listed drivers: If you want to keep separate policies but drive each other's cars regularly, you can add each other as listed drivers on the policy. We can still get you the lowest price.

Here are a few riddles to test your brain or to keep in your back pocket as a way to strike up a conversation. Can you figure them out without looking at the answer?

While it is not required by law, some landlords or buildings may require it. Renters insurance protects your personal property in a rented apartment, condo, or home from unexpected circumstances such as theft, a fire, lightning, windstorm, or sewer backup damage — and will pay you for lost or damaged possessions.

Anyone who rents the home they live in should shop for a renters insurance policy. The coverage the policy provides is valuable for reducing the financial impact of sudden or unexpected events that damage your personal belongings or leave you legally liable.

When deciding how much renters insurance is enough, our expert agents can help you decide. We'll compare all of your options to find quality coverage at the best price. With Estrella, you can also have the benefit of peace of mind.
